The entire carcass and blood of any animal affected with any of the following diseases or conditions shall be condemned and tanked or otherwise disposed of, as hereinafter provided:—

- (1) Anthrax.
- (2) Blackleg.
- (3) Pyemia or septicemia.
- (4) Rabies.
- (5) Tetanus.
- (6) Malignant catarrh.
- (7) Hog cholera.
- (8) Swine plague.
- (9) Texas fever.
- (10) Parasitic ictero hematuria.
- (11) Traumatic pericarditis.
- (12) Jaundice.
- (13) Uremia.
- (14) Abnormal sexual smell.

(15) Inflammation (chronic or acute) of any of the following tissues: Lungs, pleura, intestines, peritoneum, or uterus.

(16) Parturition (carcasses of animals having given birth to young within ten days preceding slaughter).

(17) Immaturity—carcasses of young calves, pigs, kids, and lambs are unwholesome and shall be condemned if (a) the meat has the appearance of being water-soaked, or is loose, flabby, tears easily, and can be perforated with the fingers; or (b) its colour is greyish-red; or (c) good muscular development as a whole is lacking, especially noticeable on the upper shank of the leg, where small amounts of serous infiltrates of small oedematous patches are sometimes present between the muscles; or (d) the tissue which later develops as the fat capsule of the kidneys is oedematous, dirty yellow or greyish-red, tough, and intermixed with islands of fat.

(18) Emaciation—with mucoid degeneration.

(19) Anæmia.

(20) Tapeworm cysts:—

Cysticercus bovis, Cysticercus ovis—unless the infestation is slight, in which case the carcass may be rejected and rendered into tallow. When the infestation is slight and is confined to the head and heart, the carcass, after the removal and condemnation of these parts, shall be identified by "B.C. Held" tags and kept under refrigeration or in pickle for twenty-one days. Such carcasses, if found fit for food on reinspection, shall be passed and marked as required by these Regulations.

Cysticercus cellulose—unless the infestation is slight, in which case the carcass may be rejected and rendered into lard.

(21) Tuberculosis—for the purpose of these regulations, Inspectors shall be guided by the following principles:—

(a) Meat shall not be used for food if it contains tubercle bacilli, or if the disease has reached the stage where the flesh cannot be considered as wholesome:

(b) Meat shall not be destroyed if the animal is well nourished, unless there is evidence or reasonable grounds for suspicion that the flesh is unwholesome:

(c) Any carcass affected with tuberculosis, in which the disease is associated with emaciation, or is extensive, shall be condemned:

(d) When the lesions are collectively small in extent, and are either calcified or encysted, and confined to the head, or to the head and the abdominal and thoracic viscera, their coverings and lymphatic glands, the affected parts shall be removed and condemned (except the head, which shall be removed and disposed of as provided in paragraph (e) hereof). The remainder of the carcass, if well nourished and otherwise healthy, may be passed for food. When the lesions are small but are in a state of caseation, the carcass may be rejected after the diseased portions have been removed and condemned:

(e) Heads showing lesions of tuberculosis shall be condemned, with the exception of those from approved or rejected carcasses wherein the lesions are relatively unimportant to the head itself, are slight and either calcified or encapsulated, and are confined to not more than two lymph glands of the cervical group. Such heads may be rejected after removal and condemnation of the diseased tissues:

(f) Abdominal viscera showing lesions of tuberculosis shall be condemned, with the exception of those from approved or rejected hog carcasses wherein the lesions in the mesenteric lymphatic glands are slight and either calcified or encapsulated and are confined to not more than three foci. Such viscera may be rejected after removal and condemnation of the diseased glands:

(g) Any organ shall be condemned when it contains lesions of tuberculosis or when the corresponding lymph gland is tuberculous.

In the case of rejected heads, the tongue and other edible parts may be rejected after removal of glands and adjacent tissues.

(22) Actinomycosis and actinobacillosis—the entire carcass affected with either of these diseases shall be condemned, except when the disease is confined to the seat of primary infection, or is otherwise definitely localized, and the carcass is well nourished and otherwise healthy. Should the head be affected, the whole head including the tongue must be condemned, unless the affection is slight, localized, and without suppuration, when the head and tongue may be rejected after the removal and condemnation of the lesions and surrounding tissues. Any other organ in which the disease may be localized shall be condemned.

(23) All rejected carcasses and portions shall, after the removal of all lesions and adjacent tissues, be held until rendered into lard or tallow or thoroughly cooked and placed in hermetically or other approved sealed containers and labelled with the words "This product was passed only after it was thoroughly cooked under official supervision."

(24) Carcasses extensively affected with and portions showing abscesses, bruises, tumours, and parasitic infestation shall be condemned.

(25) No product of a kind customarily prepared to be eaten without cooking shall contain any muscle tissue of pork unless the pork shall have been subjected to a temperature sufficient to destroy all live trichinæ, or to such other effective treatment as may be prescribed by the Chief Veterinary Inspector.

(26) Veterinary Meat Inspectors are authorized to deal as their judgment may direct with abnormal conditions not herein described.

Regulation No. 3.—Duties of Inspectors and Methods of Inspection

(1) Every Inspector appointed by the Minister shall be entitled at any time to enter any part of the establishment to which he is assigned, or any other place to which he may be sent in the performance of his duties.

(2) Inspectors in charge shall be responsible for the continuous supervision of operations in an establishment, including normal temporary periods of cessation.

(3) Inspectors in charge of establishments shall furnish such reports as may be required by the Chief Veterinary Inspector.

(4) Inspectors in charge of any establishment shall recommend to the management any desirable improvement in sanitary conditions, and shall report regularly to the Chief Veterinary Inspector as to the general observance of sanitary requirements.

(5) Inspectors in charge shall have custody of and be responsible for the inspection legend stamp.

(6) Inspectors shall, when deemed advisable, procure samples of any meat, product, or meat by-product. Every such sample shall be properly packaged, labelled, and marked with a description of the same, the Inspector's name, the date, and the establishment number, and shall be submitted as directed by the Chief Veterinary Inspector. Should the analysis on further inspection prove the sample to be unfit for use, the entire carcass, portion or lot from which the sample was taken, shall be disposed of in accordance with these regulations.

(7) Inspectors shall examine carefully all foods, whether meats or other products, stored in coolers or freezers of establishments, and furnish the Chief Veterinary Inspector every six months with a report as to whether or not there are in storage any foods which have been in storage for more than one year.

(8) (a) Veterinary Meat Inspectors shall examine every animal intended for slaughter prior to its entry to the killing-floor. Animals found to be diseased or suspected of being diseased shall be tagged in the right ear with a metal tag bearing the word "B.C. Held," and shall be killed separately at the end of the regular kill, or otherwise as the Inspector in charge may direct.

(b) The Inspector in charge shall immediately notify the Chief Veterinary Inspector of the presence at any establishment of any animal affected with or showing symptoms of any contagious or infectious disease, and shall ascertain the address of the farmer-owner and the point whence the animal was shipped, and shall take such action as may be required by the Act.

(c) Veterinary Meat Inspectors shall not permit slaughter of animals in an advanced stage of pregnancy. Such animals shall be tagged "B.C. Held" and shall not be slaughtered until at least ten days after parturition, but may be removed for stock or dairy purposes under written permission of the Inspector in charge and after removal of the "B.C. Held" tag if they have not been exposed to contagious or infectious diseases and only in conformance with the Act and the regulations made thereunder.

(9) Veterinary Inspectors shall make a thorough examination at the time of slaughter of all carcasses and portions thereof. If the examination reveals no grounds for detaining or condemning any carcass or portion thereof, Inspectors shall pass and mark the same as required by section (28) hereof.

(10) Any Inspector who may require any carcass, portion or product thereof, to be detained for further examination or action shall attach firmly thereto a green-lettered paper tag, numbered and bearing thereon the word "B.C. Held," and shall have such carcass, portion or product, immediately placed in the "detention" room or space. When the Inspector who makes the first examination does not make the final examination, he shall furnish the Inspector responsible for the final examination with the description of the carcass, portion or product thereof, the reason for which it is held, and the number of its "B.C. Held" tag. If on final examination the carcass, portion or product, be found fit for food, the Inspector shall remove the tag and permit such carcass, portion or product thereof, to be marked with the inspection legend stamp. If, however, any carcass, portion or product thereof, be at any time found unfit for food, the Inspector shall firmly attach thereto a black-lettered paper tag, numbered and bearing thereon the word "B.C. Condemned." Such carcass, portion or product thereof, shall be immediately tanked or placed in the "condemned" room or space for final disposition. Inspectors in charge shall be responsible for all locks and keys for "detention" and "condemned" rooms, compartments, or spaces.

(11) Carcasses showing diseased or injured portions which cannot be readily removed at the time of slaughter shall be "held" until chilled, to be dealt with as the Inspector may decide, after condemnation or rejection of the affected portion.

(12) An Inspector shall attach a numbered red-lettered paper tag bearing thereon the word "B.C. Rejected" to any carcass, portion or product thereof, which has been found on inspection or reinspection to be unfit for food unless sterilized. Any carcass or portion marked "B.C. Rejected" may, after removal of all diseased and adjacent tissue, be rendered into lard or tallow, or sterilized before use as a food product.

(13) An Inspector shall place a numbered metal tag bearing the word "B.C. Condemned" in the right ear of any animal found dead or in a dying condition on the premises of any establishment. Such tag shall be removed only by the Inspector supervising the final disposition of the carcass.

(14) Inspectors shall supervise the tanking or other disposition of all inedible portions and products, as well as condemned carcasses, portions, and products, and shall seal all tanks in which condemned material has been placed. Seals of any such tanks shall be broken only when an Inspector is satisfied that the process of tanking has rendered impossible the use of the contents for food.

(15) Inspectors may use, in connection with tanking operations or for disposition of condemned carcasses, portions or products thereof, any colouring or denaturing agent approved by the Chief Veterinary Inspector. Pending installation of tanking facilities and for a stated period approved by the Chief Veterinary Inspector, Inspectors shall slash any condemned carcass or portion to render it unsaleable, and shall supervise the burning or burial of all carcasses, portions or products thereof, so condemned.

(16) Inspectors shall condemn any carcass, portion or product thereof, contaminated by contact with tuberculous lesions or the contents thereof.

(17) The Inspector in charge of any establishment may refuse inspection and forbid removal from such establishment of any carcass, portion or product thereof, which has been slaughtered, prepared, or processed under conditions which violate any of these regulations, and such action shall be reported immediately to the Chief Veterinary Inspector.

(18) Inspectors may seize and detain any carcass, portion or product thereof, which they have reason to believe has been dealt with in violation of these regulations, and shall place thereon a numbered "B.C. Held" tag.

(19) Inspectors shall seize and detain any carcass, portion or product thereof, that has been shipped or transported by a farmer or other person in respect to which they have reason to believe that the requirements of these regulations have not been observed. Carcasses, portions or products thereof, so detained shall be marked by the Inspector with a numbered "B.C. Held" tag and shall not be moved without the authority of an Inspector.

(20) A "B.C. Held" tag shall be used whenever it may be deemed necessary by an Inspector, elsewhere than in an establishment under inspection, to seize or detain or to control or direct the movement of any carcass, portion or product thereof. When the "B.C. Held" tag is affixed to the carcass, portion or product thereof, the Inspector shall retain the detachable numbered portion, and shall at the same time issue to the owner of the carcass, portion or product thereof, or to his representative or agent, or to the person then in charge of that to which the "B.C. Held" tag has been affixed, the official form of detention (Form M.I. 7). One copy of this form bearing the signature of the recipient of the original form shall be forwarded to the Chief Veterinary Inspector together with any necessary report of the Inspector's action.

(21) Inspectors shall, after inspection and approval, permit entry into any establishment of:—

- (a) Any carcass, portion or product thereof, which bears the British Columbia inspection legend stamp or the Canada inspection legend stamp;
- (b) Dressed carcasses having the head, heart, lungs, and liver naturally attached, and in the case of animals of the bovine species, the hide must also accompany the carcass to place of inspection;
- (c) Unmarked carcasses or portions shipped from another establishment under section (24) of this regulation or under the Canada "Meat and Canned Foods Act";
- (d) Carcasses of lambs or sheep of any age or of calves not more than three months old having heart, lungs, and liver naturally attached.

Carcasses, portions or products thereof, not specifically indicated in this section shall be admitted to an establishment only after permission has been granted by the Inspector in charge.

(22) Carcasses, portions or products thereof, shall be admitted to establishments only through such entrances as are designated by the Inspector in charge for that purpose and under such conditions as he may approve.

(23) Inspectors shall admit to an establishment for processing undrawn poultry with the head, legs, and feet attached. Drawn poultry must be accompanied by the appropriate certificate issued under these regulations or under the Canada "Meat and Canned Foods Act."

(24) Inspectors shall mark with the inspection legend stamp or in accordance with section (28) hereof every carcass, portion or product thereof, found to be fit for food, except those to be shipped direct to an establishment for further processing or cure. Where fats, scraps, small portions, and unmarked cuts are to be shipped to another establishment for further processing or curing, an Inspector at the establishment of origin shall complete in triplicate a certificate as follows:—

(25) Inspectors may at any time reinspect any carcass, portion or product thereof, in an establishment. If upon such reinspection any carcass, portion or product thereof, is found to be unfit for food, it shall be dealt with and disposed of as provided in these regulations.

(26) (a) Inspectors shall impose whatever restrictions are necessary to prevent the use in an establishment of any portions not customarily used in Canada for food.

(b) Inspectors may permit the shipment from an establishment of ovaries, pituitary glands, or other portions from approved carcasses intended for medicinal or manufacturing purposes; provided that the package or containers of these portions are distinctly marked with the name of the portion and with the words "for medicinal purposes" or "for manufacturing purposes," or words of similar and applicable import.

(27) The use of paper in direct contact with trimmings, organs, and cuts frozen in blocks is prohibited, unless the paper is of a kind which does not disintegrate from exposure to the moisture from products but remains intact so that it can be readily and completely removed from the products when defrosted. Paper that may impart to products any chemical or other objectionable substances used in its manufacture shall not be used.

(28) (a) All carcasses that have passed inspection shall have placed thereon impressions of the inspection legend stamp on each quarter. If the carcasses are cut in the establishment, there shall be one stamp on each primal cut.

(34) Mucous membrane shall not be an ingredient of prepared meats or prepared meat by-products.

(35) Kidneys shall be freely sectioned and thoroughly soaked and washed before being used in the manufacture of a meat by-product. They shall not be placed in the lard-tank.

(36) Crowns shall be removed from all hog bungs used for sausage casings.

2. The inspection legend stamp is a Provincial Government mark and indicates that the carcass, portion or product thereof, so marked was, at the time of marking, sound, healthy, and fit for food, and that the products were manufactured under sanitary conditions.

(3) (a) The inspection legend stamp shall consist of the words "B.C. Passed" between two concentric ovals, in the centre of which is an imprint of the arms of the Province of British Columbia, which shall be a facsimile of the authorized pattern. To the left of the arms is the abbreviation "Est." and to the right is a space for the establishment number in the form shown below:—

The inner oval may be omitted from the imprint effected by means of a metal stamp.

(8) The inspection legend stamp shall not be used on any inedible product.

(9) Containers for inedible products shall be plainly marked with the words "Inedible—Unfit for Food."

(10) When it is impossible to permanently attach a label bearing the inspection legend stamp, it may be shown upon a shipping-tag attached to the package.
